

Basic Principles of Islamic Political System Basic

Tawhid (Oneness of Allah):

Belief that Allah is the only true Lord and Ruler. All power and laws come from Him.

- Reference: “His is the creation and the command.” (Surah Al-A’raf 7:54)
- Example: An Islamic leader must follow Allah’s laws, not personal wishes.

Risalat (Prophethood):

Belief that Allah sent Prophets to guide people. The last Prophet is Muhammad ﷺ.

- Reference: “Muhammad is the Messenger of Allah and the last of the Prophets.” (Surah Al-Ahzab 33:40)
- Example: The Prophet ﷺ is the role model for rulers and citizens.

Khilafat (Caliphate):

Belief that humans are Allah’s representatives on Earth. They must rule with justice and follow His commands.

Reference: “I will make a vicegerent (Khalifah) on Earth.” (Surah Al-Baqarah 2:30)

Example: Caliph Umar (RA) ruled with fairness and accountability.

What is the Islamic Political System?

- It is a way of governing a country by following Islamic teachings.
- It is based on the Qur’an and the Sunnah (teachings and actions) of Prophet Muhammad ﷺ.
- Its main goals are to please Allah, serve the people, and establish justice in society.
- Leaders must follow Allah’s commands, not personal desires or man-made laws.
- The system ensures that decisions are fair, people’s rights are protected, and leaders are accountable.

Qur’anic Reference: “And judge between them by what Allah has revealed.” (Surah Al-Ma’idah 5:49)

Example: During the time of Caliph Umar ibn Al-Khattab (RA), he applied Islamic laws equally to all people—rich or poor, Arab or non-Arab. He used the Qur’an and Sunnah to guide every decision and ruled with justice and fairness.

Basic Principles of Islamic Political System

These three principles are the foundation of the Islamic Political System. They guide how a country should be run according to Islam.

Tawhid – Oneness of Allah

Tawhid means that only Allah is the one true God and the Supreme Ruler of everything.

- Only Allah has the right to make laws for people to follow.
- No king, president, or parliament can make laws against Allah’s commands.
- All humans — whether rich or poor, ruler or citizen — are servants of Allah and must follow His guidance.

Qur’anic References:

“His is the creation and His is the command.” (Surah Al-A’raf 7:54) “There is no god but Allah.” (Declaration of Tawhid)

Example:

In an Islamic government, if a law goes against the Qur’an or Sunnah, it must be rejected—even if it comes from a leader or council.

During the rule of Caliph Umar (RA), he always made decisions based on Allah’s commands, not personal opinions.

Risalat – Prophethood

Risalat means that Allah sent Prophets to teach people how to live the right way.

- The last and final Prophet is Prophet Muhammad ﷺ.
- His life and teachings are called the Sunnah.
- Muslims must follow the Sunnah along with the Qur’an.
- No law is allowed in an Islamic system if it goes against what the Prophet ﷺ taught.

Qur’anic Reference:

“Whoever obeys the Messenger has obeyed Allah.” (Surah An-Nisa 4:80)

Example:

The Prophet ﷺ showed how to lead a nation with justice, how to treat people fairly, and how to consult others (Shura).

For example, during the Treaty of Hudaibiyyah, he made a peaceful agreement even when it was difficult, teaching us the value of wisdom and patience in leadership.

Khilafah – Caliphate (Leadership in Islam)

Khilafah means that a leader (Caliph) is a representative of Allah on Earth.

- The Caliph must rule according to the Qur'an and Sunnah.
- A Caliph is not above the law — he must be just, honest, and serve the people, not himself.
- The leader is responsible to Allah for how he treats people and runs the country.

Qur'anic Reference:

"Indeed, I will make upon the earth a vicegerent (khalifah)." (Surah Al-Baqarah 2:30)

Hadith Reference:

The Prophet ﷺ said:

"Every one of you is a shepherd, and every one of you is answerable for his flock." (Sahih Bukhari)

These texts show that leaders are caretakers, not kings, and they must take care of the people with honesty and fear of Allah.

Example:

Caliph Umar ibn Al-Khattab (RA) ruled with justice and simplicity. He used to walk at night to check if anyone was hungry or in need. Once, he carried food on his own back to help a poor woman — showing that a Caliph is truly a servant of the people.

Distinguishing Features of Islamic Political System

Feature	Definition	Reference	Example
Simplicity	The system is easy to understand and follow.	—	The Prophet's ﷺ government in Madinah was simple and clear.
Accessibility	Leaders are close to the people and easy to meet.	—	Caliph Umar (RA) walked among people and listened to their problems.
Accountability	Leaders must answer to Allah and the people.	—	Umar (RA) said he would be questioned if a dog went hungry under his rule.
Shura (Consultation)	Decisions are made through discussion with trusted people.	Surah Aal-e-Imran 3:159	The Prophet ﷺ consulted companions before the Battle of Uhud.
Justice	Everyone is treated fairly, with no injustice.	Surah An-Nahl 16:90	Rich and poor received equal treatment in Islamic courts.
Equality	All people are equal regardless of status, race, or wealth.	Surah Al-Hujurat 49:13	In prayer, king and worker stand side by side.
Baitul Maal	The government fund used to help the poor and support public needs.	—	Used in Caliph Umar's time to build roads and help orphans.
Welfare State	The state cares for the basic needs of all its people.	—	The Prophet ﷺ ensured food and safety for everyone in Madinah.

Simplicity

- Leaders must live simple and humble lives.
- They should avoid luxury, pride, and showing off.
- The Prophet Muhammad ﷺ and the first Caliphs lived modestly and focused on serving people, not themselves.

Qur'anic Reference:

"And do not walk upon the earth proudly." (Surah Luqman 31:18)

This teaches leaders to be humble and avoid arrogance.

Example:

Caliph Umar ibn Al-Khattab (RA) wore patched and simple clothes.

He lived a modest life even though he was the leader of a large empire, showing that true leadership means serving others without pride.

Accessibility

Islamic leaders must be easy to meet and talk to.

People should feel comfortable and free to share their problems.

There should be no fear or too much formality between leaders and the public.

Examples:

- Prophet Muhammad ﷺ used to sit and talk with poor and rich people alike, listening to their needs.
- Caliph Umar ibn Al-Khattab (RA) walked among the people to hear their problems and help them directly.

Accountability

- Leaders are not above the law.
- They must answer to Allah and the people for their actions.
- Leaders will be questioned about their decisions in this life and the hereafter.

Qur'anic Reference:

“And stop them; indeed, they are to be questioned.” (Surah As-Saffat 37:24)

This means leaders will be held responsible for their deeds.

Example:

A woman once corrected Caliph Umar (RA) in public about a mistake.

He accepted her advice, showing that leaders must be open and ready to be held accountable.

Consultative Deliberation (Shura)

- Important decisions should be made by talking and asking advice from others.
- Leaders must listen to the opinions of trusted people before making choices.
- Islam teaches that working together and consulting others is the best way to lead.

Qur'anic Reference:

“And consult with them in matters.” (Surah Aal-e-Imran 3:159)

This shows the importance of consultation in leadership.

Example:

Prophet Muhammad ﷺ always asked his companions for advice, especially before important events like the Battle of Uhud.

This helped make better decisions and showed respect for others' ideas.

Justice

- Justice means being fair to everyone — whether rich or poor, friend or enemy.
- No one gets special treatment; there is no favoritism or corruption.
- Even the leader must follow the law and be punished if they do wrong.

Qur'anic Reference:

“Indeed, Allah commands you to be just.” (Surah An-Nahl 16:90)

This shows that fairness is a command from Allah.

Example:

The Prophet Muhammad ﷺ said:

“If my daughter Fatimah stole, I would cut her hand.” (Sahih Bukhari)

This means that justice applies to everyone equally, even the Prophet's own family.

Equality

- All people are equal before Allah.
- No one is better because of their race, money, or social status.
- The only thing that makes a person better is their taqwa (God-consciousness or piety).

Qur'anic Reference:

“The most noble of you in the sight of Allah is the most righteous.” (Surah Al-Hujurat 49:13)

This means that true honor comes from being good and pious, not from birth or wealth.

Example:

The Prophet Muhammad ﷺ said:

“No Arab is better than a non-Arab, and no non-Arab is better than an Arab...” (Musnad Ahmad)

This shows that all people are equal, and only their goodness counts.

Baitul Maal (Public Treasury)

- It is the place where the money of the Muslim state is kept safely.
- This money is used to help the poor, build roads, schools, and hospitals, and serve the community.
- Leaders cannot use this money for themselves or their families.

Qur’anic Reference:

“Zakat is for the poor and the needy...” (Surah At-Tawbah 9:60)

This shows that public money must support those in need.

Example:

Caliph Umar ibn Al-Khattab (RA) kept detailed records of Baitul Maal.

He made sure the money was spent fairly and used only for public benefit, not for personal use.

Welfare State

- An Islamic state must take care of all people, whether they are rich or poor.
- It should provide food, shelter, healthcare, and education to everyone.
- The state must also support orphans, widows, and those in need.

Qur’anic Reference:

“Feed the poor, and be kind to the orphan.” (Surah Al-Insan 76:8)

This shows the importance of caring for the weak and needy.

Example:

Prophet Muhammad ﷺ said:

“The ruler is a guardian and is responsible for his people.” (Sahih Bukhari)

This means leaders must protect and care for their citizens like a guardian.

Chap 9 Islamic Economic System (IES)What is the Islamic Economic System?

Definition: The Islamic Economic System is a way of managing money and resources based on Islamic teachings. It guides how people earn, spend, and share wealth in a fair and honest manner.

Sources:

This system is based on:

The Quran: The holy book of Islam.

The Sunnah: Teachings and practices of Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him).

Goal: To create a society where everyone is treated fairly, wealth is shared justly, and people's needs are met.

Example:

In Pakistan, many people prefer Islamic banking, which follows Islamic rules. For example, Meezan Bank is a popular Islamic bank that does not charge interest, as interest (called riba) is not allowed in Islam. Instead, they use profit-sharing methods to help people save and borrow money in a halal (permissible) way.

Core Principles of the Islamic Economic System

1. Tawhid (Oneness of Allah): Meaning: Belief that Allah is the only creator and owner of everything.

In Economics: We are caretakers of the wealth Allah gives us. We must use it responsibly.

Example: A farmer shares a portion of his harvest with the poor, acknowledging that his produce is a blessing from Allah.

2. Adl (Justice): Being fair and just in all dealings.

In Economics: Ensuring fairness in buying, selling, and resource distribution.

Example: A shopkeeper uses honest weights and measures, ensuring customers get what they pay for.

3. Tazkiyah (Purification): Purifying one's wealth and soul.

In Economics: Avoiding dishonest earnings and giving to charity.

Example: A businessperson donates a portion of their income to charity, cleansing their wealth and helping those in need.

Example: Islamic Banks: Institutions like Meezan Bank in Pakistan operate without charging interest, aligning with the Islamic principle of avoiding riba (interest). Instead, they engage in profit-sharing models, ensuring fairness and justice in financial transactions.

Why the Islamic Economic System Matters

Importance of IES

1. Comprehensive Guidance: Islamic economics provides rules for all money matters. Example: It teaches how to earn, spend, and share money in a halal (permissible) way.
2. Social Justice: Ensures wealth is shared fairly among all people. Example: Through zakat (charity), the rich help the poor, reducing poverty.
3. Economic Stability: Avoids harmful practices that can hurt the economy. Example: By prohibiting interest (riba), it prevents people from falling into debt traps.
4. Moral Foundation: Encourages honesty and fairness in all dealings. Example: Businesspeople are taught to be truthful and not cheat customers.
5. Balanced Ownership: Allows people to own property but reminds them to help others. Example: A person owns a house but also donates to build homes for the needy.

What Makes the Islamic Economic System Special?

1. Divine Origin: The Islamic economic system is based on teachings from Allah. Example: The Quran and the teachings of Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) guide how Muslims should earn, spend, and share money.
2. No Interest (Riba): Charging or paying interest is not allowed in Islam. Example: Islamic banks, like Meezan Bank in Pakistan, offer loans without interest. Instead, they use profit-sharing methods to help people borrow money in a halal (permissible) way.
3. Sharing Wealth: Islam encourages sharing wealth with those in need. Example: Muslims give zakat (a form of charity) to help the poor. They also set up waqf (charitable trusts) to fund schools, hospitals, and other community services.
4. Ethical Investments: Investing in harmful or unethical businesses is not allowed. Example: Muslims avoid investing in companies that deal with alcohol, gambling, or other prohibited activities.
5. Focus on Helping People: The system aims to improve everyone's well-being, not just make profits. Example: Islamic economics supports businesses that create jobs and provide essential services, ensuring the community benefits as a whole.

How Islamic Economics Works

1. Ownership: Allah is the true owner of everything; humans are caretakers. Example: A farmer uses land to grow crops, understanding it's a trust from Allah.
2. No Interest (Riba): Charging or paying interest is not allowed to prevent injustice. Example: Islamic banks, like Meezan Bank in Pakistan, offer loans without interest, using profit-sharing methods instead.
3. Sharing Wealth: Muslims give a portion of their wealth to help those in need. Example: Paying zakat (2.5% of savings) annually to support the poor.
4. Sharing Risks: Business partners share profits and losses together. Example: Two people start a shop, agreeing to split profits and losses equally.
5. Honest Business: Being truthful and fair in all trade and business dealings. Example: A shopkeeper uses accurate scales and does not cheat customers.
6. No Hoarding: Keeping wealth idle without using it to benefit others is discouraged. Example: Investing money in businesses that create jobs instead of just saving it.
7. Helping Everyone: Ensuring everyone's basic needs like food, shelter, and education are met. Example: Community programs that provide free meals and schooling.
8. Ethical Investments: Investing only in businesses that are halal (permissible) and beneficial. Example: Avoiding investments in alcohol or gambling industries.

Importance in Islamic Law

How Islam Guides Economic Practices

1. Social Justice: Meaning: Islam teaches Muslims to pray and give zakat (charity) to help those in need.

Quran Reference: "Establish prayer and give zakat, and whatever good you put forward for yourselves— you will find it with Allah."

Example: In Pakistan, many Muslims give zakat during Ramadan to support poor families, ensuring they have food and basic needs.

2. Prohibition of Exploitation: Charging interest (riba) is forbidden in Islam because it can lead to unfairness and harm.

Quran Reference: “O you who have believed, do not consume usury, doubled and multiplied, but fear Allah that you may be successful.” (Quran 3:130)

3. Moral Accountability: Being honest and trustworthy in business is highly valued in Islam.

Hadith Reference: The Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) said, “The truthful and trustworthy merchant will be with the Prophets, the truthful, and the martyrs.” (Tirmidhi, Hadith 1209)

Comparing Economic Systems: Islamic, Capitalism, Socialism, and Communism

Understanding Economic Systems: Islamic, Capitalism, Socialism, and Communism

What is an Economic System?

An economic system is the way a country organizes its money, jobs, and resources. It decides:

Who owns what?

How do people earn money?

How are goods and services shared?

Four Main Economic Systems:

1. Islamic Economic System

Belief: All wealth belongs to Allah; humans are caretakers.

Key Features:

- No interest (riba) is allowed.
- Wealth is shared through zakat (charity).
- Business must be honest and fair.
- Example: Pakistan uses Islamic banking that avoids interest.

2. Capitalism

Belief: People can own businesses and make profits.

Key Features:

- Private ownership of property and businesses.
- Prices set by supply and demand.
- Minimal government control.

Example: The United States has a capitalist economy.

3. Socialism

Belief: The government should ensure everyone has equal access to resources.

Key Features:

- Government owns major industries.
- High taxes fund free healthcare and education.
- Aim to reduce income differences.

Example: Sweden provides free healthcare and education funded by taxes.

4. Communism

Belief: All property is owned by the community; no private ownership.

Key Features:

- Government controls all businesses and resources.
- Everyone gets equal share, regardless of work.
- No competition; no private profit.

Example: North Korea has a communist economy.

Capitalism - How Capitalism Works: Basics and Examples

What is Capitalism?

Capitalism is an economic system where people and companies own businesses and property. They aim to make profits by selling goods and services.

Key Features:

- Private Ownership: Individuals and companies own businesses and land.
- Profit Motive: The main goal is to earn profits.
- Free Market: Prices are set by supply and demand.
- Limited Government Role: The government has minimal control over businesses.

Example: The United States is a capitalist country. Companies like Apple and Amazon are privately owned and aim to make profits by selling products and services.

Pros (Good Points):

- Encourages Innovation: Businesses try to create new and better products to earn more profits.
- Consumer Choice: People have many options to choose from when buying goods and services.
- Economic Growth: Successful businesses can lead to job creation and a growing economy.

Cons (Bad Points):

- Income Inequality: Some people become very rich, while others may remain poor.
- Exploitation Risk: Workers may be paid low wages to increase company profits.
- Neglect of Public Welfare: Essential services like healthcare and education may be underprovided.

Socialism - How Socialism Works: Basics and Examples

What is Socialism?

Socialism is an economic system where the government owns major industries and aims to distribute wealth equally among all citizens. The goal is to reduce the gap between the rich and the poor.

Key Features:

- Government Ownership: The government owns and controls key industries like healthcare, education, and transportation.
- Free Public Services: Citizens receive free or low-cost services such as healthcare and education.
- High Taxes: To fund these services, the government collects higher taxes, especially from higher-income individuals.
- Wealth Redistribution: The system aims to redistribute wealth to ensure everyone has access to basic needs.

Example: Sweden

Sweden is often cited as a country that implements socialist principles. The Swedish government provides free healthcare and education to its citizens, funded by higher taxes. This system aims to ensure that all citizens have equal access to essential services.

Pros (Advantages):

- Reduces Poverty: By providing free essential services, socialism helps reduce poverty levels.
- Equal Access: All citizens have equal access to healthcare, education, and other services.
- Social Welfare: The system supports those in need, such as the unemployed, elderly, and disabled.

Cons (Disadvantages):

- High Taxes: To fund public services, citizens may face higher taxes, which can be burdensome.
- Reduced Incentives: With wealth distributed more equally, individuals may feel less motivated to work harder or innovate.
- Government Control: Extensive government control over industries can lead to inefficiencies and lack of competition.

How Communism Works: Basics and Examples

What is Communism?

Communism is an economic and political system where all property and resources are owned by the community or the government. The goal is to create a classless society where everyone is equal, and wealth is shared equally among all people.

Key Features:

- No Private Ownership: Individuals do not own businesses or land; the government or community owns everything.
- Equal Distribution: Everyone receives the same share of resources, aiming to eliminate the gap between rich and poor.
- Central Planning: The government decides what goods are produced, how much is produced, and the prices.
- Work for the Common Good: People work not for personal profit but to benefit the entire community.

Example: North Korea

North Korea is an example of a country that follows communist principles. The government controls all industries, land, and resources. Citizens work in jobs assigned by the state, and the government provides basic needs like food and housing. However, the country faces challenges such as limited personal freedoms and economic difficulties.

Pros (Advantages):

- Equality: Aims to eliminate class differences, ensuring everyone has the same status. Basic Needs Met: The government provides essential services like healthcare and education to all citizens.
- No Unemployment: The state assigns jobs to everyone, aiming for full employment.

Cons (Disadvantages):

- Lack of Motivation: Since everyone earns the same, individuals may lack the incentive to work harder or innovate.
- Limited Personal Freedom: The government controls many aspects of life, which can restrict individual choices.
- Inefficiency: Central planning can lead to poor decision-making, resulting in shortages or surpluses of goods.

What is the Islamic Economic System?

The Islamic Economic System is a way of managing money and resources based on Islamic teachings from the Quran and the Sunnah practices of Prophet Muhammad ﷺ. It focuses on fairness, justice, and helping everyone in society.

Key Features:

- No Interest (Riba): Charging or paying interest is not allowed. Instead, people share profits and losses.
- Charity (Zakat): Muslims give a small part of their wealth (usually 2.5%) to help the poor and needy.
- Ethical Business: Businesses must be honest and avoid harmful activities like selling alcohol or gambling.
- Risk Sharing: People and banks share the risks and rewards in business deals.
- Helping Society: The system encourages helping others and reducing the gap between rich and poor.

Example: Saudi Arabia

Saudi Arabia follows many Islamic economic principles. For example, banks in Saudi Arabia offer services without charging interest. The government also collects zakat to support social programs.

Pros (Advantages):

- Fairness: Everyone is treated justly, and wealth is shared to help those in need.
- Moral Guidance: People are encouraged to be honest and responsible with money.
- Stability: By avoiding risky financial practices, the system aims for a stable economy.

Cons (Challenges):

- Requires Strong Faith: People need to be committed to Islamic principles for the system to work well.

Aspect	Capitalism	Socialism	Communism	Islamic Economic System
Ownership	Private	Government	Community	Allah is the true owner
Wealth Distribution	Unequal	More equal	Equal	Through Zakat and charity
Profit Motive	High	Moderate	Low	Within ethical limits
Interest (Riba)	Allowed	Allowed	Allowed	Prohibited
Ethical Guidelines	Market-driven	Government policies	State-controlled	Based on Shariah

Examples

- Capitalism: A tech company in the USA creates a new gadget and sells it for profit.
- Socialism: In Sweden, the government provides free education and healthcare to all citizens.
- Communism: In North Korea, the government assigns jobs to people, and all businesses are state- owned.
- Islamic Economic System: In Saudi Arabia, banks operate without charging interest, and people give Zakat to support the needy.

Quran and Hadith Surah Al Hujurat & Surah Al Furgan

A. Surah Al-Hujurat Ayat 1 (49:1 Quran)

Translation: "O you who have believed, do not put [yourselves] before Allah and His Messenger but fear Allah. Indeed, Allah is Hearing and Knowing."

Explanation: This verse tells believers not to think of themselves as more important than Allah and His Messenger, Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him). It reminds us to act with humility, obey Allah's commands, and respect His Messenger. When we put Allah and His Messenger first, we avoid arrogance and follow the true path.

1. True believers always follow the guidance of Allah and His Messenger instead of trusting their own opinions.
2. This rule applies to both personal decisions and community matters.
3. The Quran and the Prophet's teachings are our main sources of law and guidance.
4. Ignoring them means defying Allah, who hears and knows everything.

B. Surah Al-Hujurat Ayat 2 (49:2 Quran)

Translation: "O you who have believed, do not raise your voices above the voice of the Prophet or be loud to him in speech like the loudness of some of you to others, lest your deeds become worthless while you perceive not."

Explanation: This verse instructs us to speak gently and respectfully when addressing the Prophet. We should not shout or speak over him because doing so can diminish the value of our good deeds. It reminds us that our manner of communication reflects our inner respect and humility.

1. This verse teaches us to speak gently and respectfully when addressing the Prophet (peace be upon him).
2. We should never raise our voices above his, showing our honor and humility.
3. This guidance reminds us to treat those of high rank with proper respect.
4. Respecting the Prophet means respecting Allah and our faith.

Promoting Mutual Respect and Avoiding Harmful Behavior – 11

Surah Al-Hujurat Ayat 11 (49:11 Quran):

Translation: "Believers, let not a group of men mock another group; it may well be that those mocked are better than them. Nor should women mock other women; perhaps the latter are better than them. And do not taunt one another or call each other by offensive nicknames. It is a bad thing to gain reputation for wrongdoing after faith. Those who do not repent are the wrongdoers."

Explanation: This verse warns us against mocking or insulting others. It teaches that we should not look down on anyone or use hurtful names because those we mock might have virtues we do not see. Such behavior is not only unkind but can also lead us away from true faith. Believers are urged to be humble and avoid actions that harm others.

1. This verse teaches us not to make fun of or insult others because everyone deserves respect.
2. We should never use hurtful nicknames or speak in a way that mocks someone.
3. Believers must always treat each other with kindness and understanding.

If we do not follow these rules, our good deeds may lose their value, and we risk doing wrong.

Promoting Mutual Respect and Avoiding Harmful Behavior – 12

Surah Al-Hujurat Ayat 12 (49:12 Quran):

Translation: "O you who have believed, avoid suspicion. Indeed, some suspicion is a sin. Do not spy on or backbite each other. Would any of you like to eat the flesh of your dead brother? You would surely hate it. Fear Allah; indeed, Allah is Accepting of repentance and is Most Merciful."

Explanation: This verse teaches us to avoid unnecessary suspicion and negative assumptions about others. It tells us not to spy on our fellow Muslims or speak badly about them behind their backs. The strong image of eating the flesh of one's dead brother shows just how disgusting backbiting is. Instead, we should act with kindness and have fear of Allah, who is always ready to forgive those who repent.

1. Believers are warned not to make too many negative assumptions or suspicions about others.
2. We must avoid spying on or speaking badly about one another.
3. The verse uses a strong image to show how repulsive backbiting is.
4. Instead, we should fear Allah, seek forgiveness, and maintain a kind community.

The Six Commandments Derived from Verses 11 & 12

1. No one should make fun of anyone: "It is enough evil for a person to look down upon his Muslim brother." (Muslim)

2. No one should taunt anyone: "A Muslim is the brother of another Muslim. He does not oppress him, nor does he ridicule him." (Bukhari & Muslim)
3. No one should call anyone by a bad name or title."The best names to Allah are 'Abdullah and 'Abdur-Rahman." (Muslim)
4. No one should be suspicious of any Muslim: "Beware of suspicion, for suspicion is the worst of false tales." (Bukhari & Muslim)
5. No one should spy on anyone or interfere in personal affairs: "Do not spy on one another, and do not seek out others' faults." (Bukhari)
6. Do not gossip or backbite: "Backbiting is to mention something about your brother that he dislikes." (Muslim)

Surah Al-Furqan, Verses 63 & 67

Understanding the Qualities of True Believers in Surah Al-Furqan

Introduction:

In this lecture, we will explore two significant verses from Surah Al-Furqan (Chapter 25 of the Quran): Verse 63 and Verse 67. These verses highlight the characteristics of true believers and provide guidance on living a balanced, kind, and moderate life. By reflecting on these teachings, we can learn how to embody humility, peace, and fairness in our daily actions.

Verse 63: The Humble Walkers on Earth

This verse describes the servants of the Most Merciful as those who walk on the earth with humility. When addressed by ignorant individuals, they respond with words of peace. This teaches us the importance of maintaining humility and responding to negativity with kindness. Islamic Studies

Verse 67: Moderation in Spending

This verse emphasizes that true believers are neither extravagant nor stingy in their spending. They find a balanced path between these extremes, highlighting the value of moderation in all aspects of life.

Key Lessons:

- Humility: Approach life with a humble attitude, treating others with respect and avoiding arrogance.
- Peacefulness: Respond to conflicts and provocations with calmness and gentle words, promoting harmony.
- Moderation: Balance your desires and actions, avoiding extremes in spending, emotions, and behaviors.
- Gratitude: Be thankful for your blessings by acknowledging those who have less, fostering contentment.
- Empathy and Generosity: Show compassion towards others' hardships and be willing to help, building a caring community.

A. Surah Furqan Ayat 63 (25:63 Quran)

Translation: "And the bondmen of the Most Affectionate are those who walk on the earth modestly and when the ignorant address them, they say, 'peace'."

Explanation:

Walking with Humility:

True believers move through life with modesty and calmness. They do not show arrogance or boast about themselves. Instead, they carry themselves with grace, as if every step is a sign of their respect for Allah. For example, even if they are in a hurry, they remain composed and respectful towards others.

Responding with Peace:

When someone speaks harshly, rudely, or foolishly, true believers reply with the word "peace." They do not raise their voice or get angry, even if they are insulted. They choose kind and gentle words to calm the situation instead of causing more conflict. For example, if someone criticizes them unfairly, they respond calmly, helping to lower tension and promote understanding.

Insights and Guidance from Verse – 63

1. Characteristics of Moral Helps: True believers are kind, merciful, and compassionate. They always help others and show genuine care, knowing that every person is a creation of Allah.
2. Humility and Modesty: They walk on the earth with a gentle, calm manner. Their modest behavior shows deep respect for Allah, and they do not boast or seek praise.
3. Respectful Reaction: Even when faced with harsh or foolish words, they respond politely with "peace" This respectful reaction prevents arguments and helps to calm tensions.
4. Balanced and Gracious Demeanor: They maintain balance in all aspects of life, showing calm and peace in their actions. Their behavior reflects inner peace and serves as a positive example for others.
5. How to Practice These Qualities:
 - Be Kind and Compassionate: Treat everyone with care, help those in need, and always remember Allah's mercy.

- Stay Humble: Avoid showing off and focus on improving yourself quietly.
- Respond with Peace: When you encounter anger or rudeness, reply with calm and kind words instead of reacting harshly.

A. Surah Furqan Ayat 67 (25:67 Quran)

Translation: "And those who when they spend, do not exceed the limit, nor are they miserly, and remain on the middle path."

Explanation:

Moderation in Spending:

- Believers are encouraged to use their money wisely.
- They avoid spending too much on unnecessary things and also avoid being overly tight with their money.
- This balanced way of spending helps them make sure that they can support themselves and also help others.

Balanced Approach to Life:

- They follow a middle path, avoiding extremes in every aspect of life.
- This balance means they are fair when giving charity and in how they manage their daily tasks.
- By keeping a balanced life, they remain humble, kind, and just in their actions.

Living a Balanced Life: Lessons from Verse 67

Responsibility and Accountability:

Every person is responsible for their own actions.

We will all be held accountable by Allah for the way we live our lives.

Example: If we do something wrong, we should try to fix it and ask for forgiveness.

Moderation in Spending:

Believers use their money wisely, avoiding both wastefulness and being too tight-fisted. They spend enough to take care of their needs and help others without overspending.

Example: Instead of buying unnecessary items, use money to support your family or donate to charity.

Balance in Life:

A balanced life means being fair in both giving and receiving. Believers follow a middle path, avoiding extremes in every part of life.

Example: They work hard but also take time for rest and prayer, keeping their life in harmony.

Verse 63 reminds us to be humble and peaceful, while Verse 67 teaches us the importance of balance. Together, these verses guide us to be kind, respectful, and fair in our daily actions.

When we follow these teachings, we build a community full of compassion, fairness, and trust. A balanced and responsible community helps everyone live better and be closer to Allah.

Introduction to Hadith No. 1 – “Look at Those Below You”

In this lesson, we will learn about a very meaningful Hadith of Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) called “Look at those who have less than you.”

This Hadith teaches us an important way to think in life:

- ☐ Be thankful for what you have.
- ☐ Don't compare yourself with people who have more.
- ☐ Avoid jealousy and stay happy by remembering others who have less than you.

A. The Hadith No-1 (Look Lower)

The Prophet (peace be upon him) said: "When any one of you looks at someone who is better in appearance and wealth, he should then look at someone who is lower." (Sahih Muslim, Hadith 2963)

Learning to Be Thankful and Happy with What We Have

A. Being Thankful (Shukr)

- What it means: When we look at people who have less than us, we remember how much we already have.
- Why it's important: It helps us say Alhamdulillah (Thank you, Allah) more often and be grateful for our blessings.
- Simple example: If you see someone who doesn't have clean clothes or a good meal, it reminds you that you are lucky to have those things.

B. Being Happy with What We Have (Qana'ah)

- What it means: When we stop always wanting more and look at those with less, we feel more satisfied and peaceful.

- Why it's important: It helps us enjoy life, worry less, and thank Allah instead of comparing ourselves to others.

C. Avoiding Envy (Hasad)

- Explanation: When we always compare ourselves to those who have more, we might start feeling jealous and unhappy.
- Key Point: The Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) taught us to focus on those who have less to avoid these bad feelings.
- Example: If you feel envious of someone with a big house, think about those who don't have a home. This can help you appreciate your own situation.

D. Perspective on Worldly vs. Spiritual Matters

- Explanation: The Prophet (peace be upon him) advised that in terms of worldly things like money and status, we should look at those who have less to keep our hearts humble.
- Key Point: For our spiritual and moral growth, we should look up to people who are very pious (يَقْتُم) and have good character.
- Example: Instead of admiring someone just for their wealth, admire someone known for their honesty and kindness.

Cultivating Gratitude and Compassion in Daily Life

E. Achieving Balance Between Material and Spiritual Needs

- Explanation: Islam teaches us to appreciate the beauty and success in our lives without becoming overly focused on material possessions. This means enjoying what we have but not letting it distract us from our spiritual goals.
- Key Point: We should strive to balance our worldly desires with our spiritual responsibilities, ensuring neither is neglected.
- Example: While it's fine to work hard and earn money, we should also dedicate time to prayer, helping others, and self-reflection to maintain this balance.

F. Developing Empathy and Encouraging Generosity

- Explanation: Observing the challenges faced by others can deepen our empathy, making us more inclined to offer assistance and support. This awareness fosters a sense of community and shared responsibility.
- Key Point: By practicing kindness and giving to those in need, we contribute to building a compassionate and caring society.
- Example: Donating to charity or volunteering time to help the less fortunate not only aids them but also cultivates gratitude and humility within ourselves.

These principles are deeply rooted in Islamic teachings, emphasizing the importance of balancing material pursuits with spiritual growth and fostering empathy through acts of generosity.

Practical Steps to Cultivate Gratitude and Contentment

- Practice Daily Gratitude: Each day, take a moment to reflect on your blessings and thank Allah. This habit fosters a positive outlook and reinforces appreciation for what you have.
- Limit Comparisons with Others: Avoid measuring your life against others', especially on social media, as this can lead to envy and dissatisfaction.
- Engage in Acts of Charity: Helping those in need not only benefits them but also deepens your sense of gratitude and empathy. Seek Spiritual Role Models: Look up to individuals known for their strong faith and good character, rather than those celebrated solely for material success.
- Main Points to Remember This Hadith encourages us to appreciate our blessings by observing those with less, development gratitude and contentment. It advises against envy and promotes a balanced perspective between worldly achievements and spiritual growth.

By embracing these teachings, we can attain inner peace and contribute to a compassionate, supportive community that aligns with Islamic values.

Hadith No:2 – Four Signs of a Hypocrite

The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: "There are four traits: whoever has them is a pure hypocrite, and whoever has one of them has a trait of hypocrisy until he gives it up. When he is entrusted, he betrays; when he speaks, he lies; when he makes a promise, he breaks it; and when he disputes, he behaves immorally."

(Sahih Bukhari, Hadith No: 2459)

B. Explanation - Upholding Trust and Honesty in Islam

A. Betrayal(تبايع)of Trust

- Explanation: Being trustworthy means keeping the promises and secrets others share with us.
- Example: If a friend tells you a secret, keeping it confidential shows you respect their trust.

B. Honesty in Speech

- Explanation: Speaking truthfully builds trust and strengthens relationships.
- Example: Admitting when you've made a mistake at work shows honesty and helps solve problems.

C. Keeping Promises

- Explanation: Fulfilling our commitments shows reliability and respect for others.
- Example: If you promise to help a neighbor move, doing so keeps your word and supports them.

D. Fairness in Disputes

- Explanation: Handling disagreements with fairness and respect prevents harm and maintains peace.
- Example: Listening to both sides of an argument between friends helps find a fair solution.

Practical Steps for Improving Character

C. Practical Lessons for Muslims

- Self-Reflection: Take time to look at your own actions and ask yourself if you have any negative habits, like lying or breaking promises. Try to correct them.
Example: Before going to bed, think about your day—did you keep your word? Did you act with honesty?
- Trustworthiness: Be someone people can rely on. Whether it's a small task or a big responsibility, always do what you say you will do.
Example: If a friend asks for help, do your best to support them without making excuses.
- Truthfulness: Always speak the truth, even if it's difficult. Lying can damage trust and hurt relationships.
Example: If you make a mistake, admit it. Being honest shows strength of character.
- Fulfilling Promises: When you give your word, keep it. This helps build trust and makes people respect you.
Example: If you promise to meet a friend, don't cancel unless it's absolutely necessary.
- Resolving Disputes Decently: Approach disagreements with calmness, respect, and fairness, instead of getting angry or disrespectful.
Example: If you disagree with someone, listen carefully to their point of view before responding kindly.

Upholding Integrity: Lessons from Hadith No:2

D. Conclusion of Hadith No:2 (Four Signs)

This Hadith highlights actions that harm both our personal character and the well-being of our community. By recognizing and avoiding these behaviors, we can strengthen our faith and demonstrate true commitment to Islam.

Key Points:

- Betraying Trust - تنبايع انرك
- Lying
- Breaking Promises
- Immorality in Disputes

Practical Steps to Uphold Integrity:

- Self-Reflection: Regularly assess your actions and strive to align them with Islamic values.
- Seek Forgiveness: Repent for past shortcomings and commit to positive change.
- Educate Yourself: Learn about the teachings of Islam to better understand and embody its principles.
- Lead by Example: Prove honesty in all aspects of life to inspire others.

3. Hadith No:2 – Virtue and Sin

An-Nawwas bin Sam'an (RA) narrated that he asked the Prophet (peace be upon him) about virtue and sin, and the Prophet said: "Virtue is good manners and sin is that which pricks your conscience and which you would not like people to know."

B. Understanding Virtue and Sin in Islam

Virtue (Good Manners): Good manners are behaviors that reflect kindness, honesty, respect, and humility. These are qualities that help build strong, positive relationships.

Example: Being polite to everyone, helping those in need, and showing care for others. These actions make our hearts and society better.

Sin (What Pricks Your Conscience): Sin is any act that causes guilt or shame. It is something we wouldn't want others to know about because it goes against our moral values.

Example: Cheating on a test or lying about something important. When we do such things, they make us feel bad inside because we know they are wrong.

Practical Guidance for Upholding Virtue and Avoiding Sin

C. Practical Lessons for Muslims

1. Focus on Good Behavior: Strive to embody kindness, honesty, respect, and humility in your daily interactions.
Example: Treat everyone with politeness and assist those in need, fostering a supportive community.
2. That Cause Guilt: Be mindful of your actions; refrain from behaviors that lead to feelings of guilt or shame.
Example: Avoid dishonesty or unethical conduct, as these actions harm your conscience and relationships.
3. Reflection: Nurture both your external manners and internal feelings to cultivate strong moral character.
Example: Engage in self-reflection to ensure your actions align with your values, promoting personal growth.

Key Takeaways:

Virtue and Sin: Good manners enhance our connection with Allah and others, while sinful actions damage our hearts and relationships.

Balanced Life: By practicing virtue and steering clear of actions that cause guilt, we lead lives that please Allah and contribute positively to our communities.

Life of the Beloved Holy Prophet

Life of the Holy Prophet Muhammad (PBUH)

1. Introduction

Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) was born in 570 CE in Makkah, in the tribe of Quraysh. Known for his honesty and truthfulness, he was called Al-Ameen (The Trustworthy) even before Prophethood. At the age of 40, he received the first revelation from Allah through Angel Jibreel (Gabriel) in the Cave of Hira, marking the beginning of his mission as the final Messenger of Islam.

2. Importance of His Life for a Muslim

The Prophet's life serves as the best practical example for Muslims. Allah says in the Quran:

"Indeed in the Messenger of Allah (Muhammad), you have a good example to follow..."

— [Surah Al-Ahzab 33:21]

- Spiritual Model: His worship, humility, and obedience to Allah guide Muslims in faith.
- Moral Example: His honesty, patience, forgiveness, and kindness set high moral standards.
- Social Reformer: He abolished racism, tribalism, and injustice.
- Leader and Statesman: He established a just and peaceful society in Madinah.
- Mercy to Mankind:

"And We have not sent you, [O Muhammad], except as a mercy to the worlds."

— [Surah Al-Anbiya 21:107]

3. Lessons from His Makki Life (610–622 CE)

a. Preaching (Da'wah) with Wisdom

- The Prophet began by inviting family and close friends secretly.
- Later, he preached openly to the public in Makkah.
- He used logic, stories of past nations, and gentle speech.
- Despite opposition, he never forced anyone and always invited with kindness.

"Invite to the way of your Lord with wisdom and good instruction..."

— [Surah An-Nahl 16:125]

b. Patience (Sabr)

- Faced with mockery, torture, and boycotts.
- Close companions like Bilal, Ammar, and Sumayyah were severely persecuted.
- Even during personal tragedies (death of his wife Khadijah and uncle Abu Talib), he remained patient.

“Indeed, Allah is with those who are patient.”

— [Surah Al-Baqarah 2:153]

c. Steadfastness (Istiqamah)

- Despite threats and temptations from the Quraysh (offers of wealth and power), he never abandoned the message.
- Refused to compromise on the truth, even when isolated or attacked.

“So remain on a right course as you have been commanded...”

— [Surah Hud 11:112]

d. Trust on Allah (Tawakkul)

- The Prophet always trusted Allah’s plan.
- In the Cave of Thawr during Hijrah, when enemies approached, he said to Abu Bakr:

“Do not be sad. Indeed, Allah is with us.”

— [Surah At-Tawbah 9:40]

- His trust never wavered, even when results seemed delayed.

e. Networking and Building Alliances

- Built strong bonds with:
 - His companions (Abu Bakr, Ali, Khadijah)
 - Visitors from outside Makkah (e.g., tribes from Yathrib, later Madinah)
- Preached Islam during Hajj seasons to delegations from other regions.
- These efforts later led to the invitation from the people of Madinah, preparing the ground for migration.

f. Migration (Hijrah)

- After years of persecution, Allah commanded the Prophet to migrate to Madinah.
- The Hijrah was:
 - Planned wisely (leaving at night, hiding in a cave, choosing a secret path)
 - Marked a new beginning for the Muslim community
 - Became the basis of the Islamic calendar
- In Madinah, the Prophet established the first Islamic state.

4. Conclusion

The Makki life of the Prophet Muhammad (PBUH) is full of guidance for Muslims today. His unwavering faith, patience under pressure, wise preaching, and complete trust in Allah are timeless lessons. Every Muslim must study and emulate his life to become better in character, stronger in faith, and successful in both this world and the hereafter.

Life of the Holy Prophet (PBUH) – Madani Period

1. Introduction to the Madani Life (622–632 CE)

After facing years of persecution in Makkah, the Prophet (PBUH) migrated to Madinah in 622 CE, marking the start of the Islamic calendar (Hijrah). In Madinah:

- Islam was practiced freely.
- The first Islamic state was established.
- Constitution of Madinah was drafted.
- Battles were fought to defend Islam.
- Muslims were trained in social, political, and spiritual dimensions.

2. Lessons from the Madani Life

a. Obligatory Worship (Fara'id)

- Salah (Prayer): 5 daily prayers were now fully implemented.
- Zakat (Charity): Instituted to support the needy and purify wealth.
- Sawm (Fasting): Ramadan fasting became obligatory.
- Hajj (Pilgrimage): Later made obligatory in 9 AH.

- Emphasis on congregational worship and discipline.
- “Indeed, prayer restrains from immorality and wrongdoing.”
— [Surah Al-Ankabut 29:45]

b. Preparedness and Participation in Jihad

- Jihad means struggle — includes defensive battles, self-control, and striving for justice.
- Participated in key battles:
 - Badr (624 CE) – first victory, with divine help.
 - Uhud (625 CE) – lesson in obedience and patience.
 - Khandaq (627 CE) – strategic defense.
- Emphasis on:
 - Physical preparation
 - Unity and discipline
 - Just conduct in warfare (no harm to civilians, environment, or prisoners)

c. Counseling and Consultation (Shura)

- The Prophet (PBUH) consulted companions regularly, even younger ones.
- Shura was practiced before major decisions (e.g., Battle of Uhud).
- Taught mutual respect, listening, and inclusiveness in leadership.

“...consult them in matters. Then when you have taken a decision, put your trust in Allah.”
— [Surah Aal-Imran 3:159]

d. Contemporary Education

- Encouraged seeking knowledge from cradle to grave.
- Set up Suffah (learning platform in the mosque).
- Emphasized literacy, even taught prisoners of war to read/write in exchange for freedom.
- Sent teachers and letters to tribes and kings for education and dawah.

e. Relations with Non-Muslims

- Signed Constitution of Madinah, guaranteeing:
 - Protection of Jews and Christians
 - Freedom of religion
 - Equal rights and responsibilities
- Maintained treaties (e.g., Treaty of Hudaibiyyah) until broken by others.
- Invited non-Muslims with respectful dialogue and peaceful preaching.

f. Keeping Promises

- Known as Al-Ameen (The Trustworthy).
- Never broke treaties even with enemies.
- Taught Muslims to honor contracts, oaths, and agreements.

“And fulfill [every] commitment. Indeed, the commitment is ever [that about which one will be] questioned.”
— [Surah Al-Isra 17:34]

g. Forgiveness and Mercy

- Forgave enemies repeatedly:
 - After Taif
 - After conquest of Makkah: “Go, you are free.”
- Did not seek personal revenge.
- Promoted peace and reconciliation wherever possible.

“Repel evil with that which is better.”
— [Surah Fussilat 41:34]

h. Human Rights and Justice

- Ensured:
 - Protection of life, property, and dignity
 - Rights of women, children, orphans, slaves, and non-Muslims
- Last Sermon emphasized:

- Equality of all races and tribes
- Rights of women
- Sanctity of life and property

“All mankind is from Adam and Eve. An Arab has no superiority over a non-Arab, nor a non-Arab over an Arab... except by piety and good action.”

— From the Last Sermon

3. Summary of Values from the Madani Life

Key Theme	Core Lessons and Examples
Worship	Disciplined observance of Salah, Zakat, Sawm, Hajj
Jihad (Struggle)	Defense of Islam, sacrifice, discipline
Shura (Consultation)	Mutual decision-making and inclusion
Education	Promoted learning, literacy, and wisdom
Interfaith Harmony	Respect, tolerance, and peaceful coexistence
Keeping Promises	Honesty in diplomacy and personal conduct
Forgiveness	Mercy shown to enemies and oppressors
Human Rights	Emphasis on equality, justice, and dignity for all

Conclusion

The Madani life of Prophet Muhammad (PBUH) provides a complete model of governance, justice, worship, and social order. His actions offer timeless guidance for individuals and societies seeking peace, fairness, and moral strength.

The Hijrah: A Turning Point in Islamic History

A. Introduction - Reasons for Migration to Madina (Hijrah)

The migration (Hijrah) of Prophet Muhammad ﷺ and his followers from Makkah to Madina in 622 CE was a key moment in Islamic history. This journey was not merely a relocation but a significant step towards establishing a community where Muslims could practice their faith freely and build a society based on Islamic principles.

Reasons for the Migration to Madina (Hijrah)

1. Persecution and Opposition:

- The Quraysh and other tribes in Makkah strongly opposed the Prophet Muhammad’s (peace be upon him) message.
- Muslims were subjected to harassment, threats, and violence.
- Life in Makkah became increasingly dangerous for the early believers.

2. Safety and Protection:

- Muslims desired a place where they could practice their faith without fear.
- The people of Madina welcomed the Prophet and his followers, offering them protection and support.
- Madina provided a secure environment for the Muslim community to grow.

3. Establishing a Muslim Community:

- Creating a Safe Space: The migration to Madina allowed Prophet Muhammad ﷺ and his followers to live in a place where they could practice Islam freely and safely.
- Building a Strong Community: In Madina, the Prophet ﷺ established a community based on Islamic teachings, promoting values like justice, compassion, and mutual support.
- Spreading the Message: This new community became a foundation for spreading Islam beyond Madina, influencing many regions.

4. Divine Instruction:

- Command from Allah: The Prophet ﷺ received clear instructions from Allah to migrate to Madina, making the journey a fulfillment of divine will.
- Vision of Hope: Madina was seen as a land of promise, where the Muslim community could grow and thrive under Allah's guidance.

5. Economic Hardship in Makkah:

- Severe Boycott: The Quraysh imposed a strict boycott on Muslims, cutting off trade and social ties.
- Widespread Poverty: Many Muslims faced hunger and financial struggles due to the boycott.

Economic Opportunities in Madina

- Agricultural Prosperity: Madina's fertile land and numerous oases made it ideal for farming, especially date cultivation.
- Supportive Community: The local tribes of Aws (أوس) and Khazraj welcomed the Prophet Muhammad ﷺ and his followers, offering them protection and assistance.
- Revival (إحياء) of Trade: The Prophet ﷺ established a marketplace in Madina, encouraging trade and economic growth.

C. Conclusion on the Migration:

- The migration to Madina (Hijrah) was a major turning point for Muslims.
- It allowed the Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) and his followers to practice their faith freely and build a strong, united community.
- This journey shows the importance of faith, patience, and working together during difficult times.
- The life of the Prophet in Madina and the reasons for the migration show us a practical example of how to live a life of worship, justice, and compassion.
- These events teach us to overcome adversity through faith, build strong communities, and always strive for a balanced and ethical life.
- As we reflect on these lessons, let us be inspired to follow the Prophet's example in our daily lives, fostering a community of peace, trust, and mutual respect.

Islamic Laws and Jurisprudence (Fiqh & Shari'ah)

1. Introduction

Islamic Law, known as Shari'ah, is the divine law revealed by Allah for the guidance of mankind. Fiqh is the human understanding and interpretation of Shari'ah based on the Qur'an and Sunnah.

Shari'ah governs all aspects of a Muslim's life, including worship (ibadat), social dealings (mu'amalat), criminal justice, marriage, economics, and more.

2. Sources of Islamic Law

Islamic Law is derived from two main categories:

A. Primary Sources (Aslī Maṣādir)

These are directly revealed or strongly connected to divine revelation:

i. The Holy Qur'an

- The final and complete book of guidance revealed to Prophet Muhammad (PBUH).
- Contains laws regarding:
 - Worship (Salah, Sawm, Zakat, Hajj)
 - Marriage, Divorce, Inheritance
 - Criminal laws (theft, murder, etc.)
 - Business ethics
- About 500 verses directly relate to legal rulings.
- Foundation for all other sources.

ii. Sunnah / Hadith

- The sayings, actions, and approvals of the Prophet Muhammad (PBUH).
- Explains and clarifies the Qur'an (e.g., how to pray, fast, perform Hajj).
- Example: Qur'an orders Salah, Hadith explains its method.

B. Secondary Sources (Far'ī Maṣādir)

Derived through reasoning based on the Qur'an and Sunnah:

i. Ijma (Consensus)

- Agreement of Islamic scholars on a ruling after the Prophet's death.
- Example: Compilation of the Qur'an, rules for zakat on modern currency.

ii. Qiyas (Analogical Reasoning)

- Applying known rulings to new situations using logic.
- Example: Ruling of wine (prohibited) applied to modern drugs due to similar effects.

- iii. Istihsan (Juristic Preference)
 - Leaving a strict analogy for a more just or easier solution in special cases.
- iv. Maslahah (Public Interest)
 - Laws based on benefit to society if no clear text exists.
- v. Urf (Custom)
 - Cultural practices accepted if they don't contradict Shari'ah.

3. The Holy Qur'an and Law

- First and most authoritative source.
- Eternal and preserved in its original form.
- Serves as basis for all Islamic rulings.
- Verses of law called Ahkam al-Qur'an.
- Often general—requires explanation from Sunnah.

4. Compilation of Hadith

After the Prophet's death, companions began preserving his sayings and actions:

Stages of Compilation:

i. Early Collection

- Sahabah like Abu Hurairah, Aisha (RA), Abdullah ibn Umar, and others memorized Hadith.
- Writings like Sahifah of Hammam ibn Munabbih (student of Abu Hurairah).

ii. Systematic Compilation (2nd–3rd Century Hijrah)

- Scholars traveled and gathered Hadith, verifying chains (isnad).
- Major Hadith compilations:
 - Sahih Bukhari
 - Sahih Muslim
 - Sunan Abu Dawud
 - Sunan al-Tirmidhi
 - Sunan al-Nasa'i
 - Sunan Ibn Majah

These six are known as Sihah Sittah (The Six Authentic Books) in Sunni Islam.

5. Types of Hadith

Hadith are classified based on authenticity, number of narrators, and legal strength:

A. Based on Authenticity:

Type	Description
Sahih	Authentic; strong chain, reliable narrators, no contradiction
Hasan	Good; slightly less strong but still acceptable
Da'if	Weak; has issues in chain or content
Maudu'	Fabricated; not attributed to the Prophet, rejected

B. Based on Chain of Narrators:

Type	Description
Mutawatir	Narrated by so many people it's impossible to be false
Ahad	Reported by fewer narrators; includes:

- Mashhur (widely known),
- Aziz (two or more narrators),
- Gharib (only one narrator at some level) |

C. Based on Content:

- Qawli: Prophet's sayings (e.g., "Actions are judged by intentions.")
- Fi'li: Prophet's actions (e.g., how he prayed)
- Taqiriri: Prophet's approval (e.g., he saw something done and didn't object)

Conclusion

Islamic Law is a complete legal and moral system derived from the Qur'an and Hadith, supported by scholarly methods like Ijma and Qiyas. The careful preservation and classification of Hadith ensures that Islamic rulings are authentic, applicable, and timeless.
