

Continuing Professional Development cycle

Continuing professional development (CPD) is the ongoing process of identifying professional goals, developing a plan to achieve them, and documenting the experience.

Stages include:-

Stage1 :- Identify needs.

Stage2 :- Planning.

Stage3 :- Action or doing.

Stage4 :- Reflecting on learning.

Stage5 :- Implement your new learning.

Stages of CPD cycle

Stage1 :- Identifying your needs, means what is your goal. pushing you potential in your career involves strategic thinking Take a moment to summarize your current career path and Imagine great milestones for the future. Now, construct a road-Map. A roadmap of achievable small goals that you can actually achieve your bigger goals.

Stage2 :- Planning means set goals and make a plan. Identify gaps, areas of growth and opportunities to help you progress to the next stage in your career. SMART goals based on these needs, outlining activities and resources required to achieve your objectives.

Stages of CPD cycle (continues)

Stage3 :- Action means start planning your learning activities Plan to attend for training or coaching sessions, enroll in certificate courses, attend webinars, conferences, and learn courses from udemy / courseera / udacity / the great learning / google free courses.

Stage4 :- Reflection on your experiences. Consider what you have learned and how it has influenced your work. Writing down these observations helps you reflect on your progression and evolve your approach. Identify any personal and professional development needs or areas for further improvement.

Stages of CPD cycle (continues)

Stage5 :- Implementation stage offers regularly promote internal training with links to self-directed learning and communicate the process for requesting online courses and one should not stop after completing one or two certificate course, he / she Should continuously participate in life long learning activities.

Example for CPD cycle using SMART Goal

SMART goal example for learning English :-

Specific:- I want to learn how to have conversations in English to have better communication with my clients while doing free lancing.

Measurable :- I will use a daily language learning App on cell to hold me accountable and track my progress.

Attainable:- I know English speakers on my different social media accounts to whom i can practice English with them.

Relevant:- I am a free lancer and most of my clients are native English speakers so its mandatory and relevant for me to learn English.

Time-bound:- I want to learn English in next 3 months so i can at least communicate to my clients and complete online projects on time.